Emergency Root Canal Therapy

The dental treatment you just received was an emergency procedure to relieve your pain or eliminate possible future pain.

Your tooth was left open for your comfort but cannot remain open or unfinished indefinitely. Make sure you set up your next appointment as soon as possible to continue with treatment.

Delays in treatment may cause the tooth to significantly decay, making it non-restorable, and possibly requiring an extraction.

Keep the tooth as clean as possible. Rinse after every meal and ensure no food particles get stuck in the tooth.
